

UNIVERSITY MISSOURIAN.

FIFTH YEAR

SUMMER SESSION WEEKLY.

COLUMBIA, MISSOURI, FRIDAY, AUGUST 1, 1913

NUMBER 220

SAY RURAL PASTOR SHOULD BE LEADER

Preachers Must Do Other Things Than Preach, Conference Hears.

ONE HELPS FARMERS

C. E. Hatfield, Pastor of Widely Known Church, Studies Agriculture.

That the church should be the leading factor in a rural community and the pastor the leading man of his district were the ideas suggested by the Rev. Ralph Felton, rural expert of the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions, who addressed the Religious Work Conference at the Y. M. C. A. Building Friday night.

"The schools and the churches are the social centers of the rural districts, but they are not living up to their opportunities," said the speaker. "It lies with them to stop the movement to the city, on the part of the young persons of their community."

Prof. A. W. Taylor of the Missouri Bible College spoke of "The Irish Peasantry, a Study of Degenerate Social Conditions." He said that the conditions which prevail in Ireland are a result of the system of "absolute landlordism," which exists there.

Conditions Becoming Better.

"The cattle and the sheep are treated far better than the peasantry," said the speaker, "but conditions are being improved, for in the last few years the English government has undertaken a great social work. The government will now lend money to the peasants at a low rate of interest, thus enabling them to purchase their land, something which they never have been able to do before."

The Rev. C. W. Tadlock, pastor of the Methodist Church of Columbia, presided at the meeting.

A rural preacher should know how to do other things than preach," said the Rev. C. E. Hatfield in his address to the conference Saturday night. "The preacher must cooperate with the farmer, and then the farmer will cooperate with the preacher."

Mr. Hatfield went to Hoberg, Lawrence County, before there was a railroad, and by following the idea he expressed, he has built up one of the most widely known rural churches in Missouri. He attends the short courses in agricultural schools and is an industrious reader of the bulletins distributed by the College of Agriculture. It was as a result of his efforts and teachings that the farmers of Lawrence County adopted the latest methods of farming. Under the leadership of his church a railroad was induced to build into Hoberg and with this progress stores were started and a bank opened.

Church Swells Farmers' Profits.

The church officials, in conjunction with the banks, advise the farmers in financial matters and in several years have saved them hundreds of dollars. This induces the farmers to help the church, for they know that the church will help them materially as well as spiritually.

Within a radius of eight miles of Mr. Hatfield's church less than 1 per cent of the residents are not regular attendants at some church. The attendance at the Sunday School of this church is 350—so large that a tent must be provided for the school.

NEED SCHOOLS AND CHURCHES

Speakers Say Solution of Rural Problem Lies in These Institutions.

"The best approach to the rural problem is through the schools and churches," said H. J. Waters, president of the Kansas Agricultural College, who addressed the Religious Work Conference Sunday night. Doctor Waters was formerly dean of the College of Agriculture here.

In the last twenty-five years an expensive form of civilization has grown up. This, with the exodus to the cities, has gradually raised the cost of living to its present high point. To solve the problem, to induce a return to the land, conditions in the country must be made more attractive—equal to those in the city from every point of view. The farmer must also be taught to take a vital interest in his work.

W. M. Parsons, state secretary of the rural Y. M. C. A. of Iowa was the second speaker on the program Sunday night. He said that the teachers of the state have a great opportunity in shaping the lives of the young people of the state.

The rural problem is more of a moral than an economic one, said the speaker. The solution of it, in his opinion, lies largely with the rural teachers of the state. These teachers owe it to the communities in which they teach to be an example for the young people. To do this they should do three things—lead lives as nearly blameless as possible, throw their influence positively on the side of righteousness and identify themselves with the church.

SERVED 900 FREE DINNERS

One Thousand Attend Boone County Baptists' Rally.

The largest free dinner ever served in Columbia was served Tuesday by the women of the Columbia Baptist Church. Nine hundred plates filled with fried chicken, ham, roast beef, salad, pickles, cake and pie were handed out the windows of Stephens College.

Most of the dinner was donated by the various members of the church. The women who prepared the dinner said they had 150 fried chickens, 80 pounds of ham, 250 pounds of roast beef, 100 cakes, 250 pies, 25 gallons of buttermilk, 25 gallons of ice tea and a wagon load of watermelons.

One thousand Baptists attended the rally. Practically all of the twenty-four churches in the county were represented. E. W. Stephens was chairman of the meeting and made the opening address.

The Rev. Charles E. King addressed the meeting on the "Possibilities and Opportunities of the Boone County Churches." "The Grouping of Churches" was the subject of John Singleton's address.

H. F. Childers, publisher of the Columbia Herald, spoke on church organization and the methods of church work. Other speakers were: P. F. Trowbridge, E. Paul Steel, Mrs. J. Wharton and H. O. Severance.

Resolutions were adopted which will make the rally and basket dinner an annual affair.

$100,000 EXHIBIT FOR MISSOURI AT FRISCO

J. Ed. Crumbaugh Gathering Agricultural Specimens for 1915 Fair.

TO BE STORED HERE

Samples of This Year's Crop to Be Preserved Until Exposition.

Missouri will have an agricultural exhibit at the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915, which will cost about $100,000. The state has appropriated that amount for the exhibit.

The agricultural products are now being gathered and prepared for storage in the Agricultural Chemistry Building, where they will be kept until the time to move them to San Francisco. The products which will be used in the exhibit are selected with great care, and are then treated so that they will keep in condition for several years.

At the request of Governor Elliott W. Major, J. Ed. Crumbaugh, University custodian, is gathering the products which are to be used. Mr. Crumbaugh has had much experience in gathering and preparing exhibits. He was superintendent of all exhibits in the agricultural building at the World's Fair in St. Louis. He had charge of the Missouri exhibit at the Pan-American Exposition, and at the Portland, Seattle and Jamestown expositions.

"Many persons ask why I am gathering the products now, when the exposition is not until 1915," said Mr. Crumbaugh. "The agricultural products must be in a condition to keep, and by taking this year's crop we can have it in much better condition than we could by taking next year's crop." Mr. Crumbaugh has already gathered some grains, and will gather the other products as the season advances.

Wheat, oats, blue grass, timothy, alfalfa, vetch, several varieties of clover, cowpeas, millet, kaffir corn and cotton will make up part of the exhibit. Mr. Crumbaugh says it is not generally known that Missouri produces cotton, but five counties in the southern part of the state produce cotton of the first quality. The exhibit is to represent the entire state, and Mr. Crumbaugh is trying to make the collection as complete as possible.

FOOTBALL WILL BE LESS EXPERIMENTAL

Usual Crop of New Rules Lacking—Game Much Like 1912.

ONLY 1 BIG CHANGE

Professor Brewer Predicts More Satisfactory Game This Season.

The 1913 football rules contain only one important change—that of allowing the ball to be kicked from any place behind the scrimmage line. This will make the game less experimental and more similar to the previous season's playing than it has been any other time in the last five years, according to Prof. C. L. Brewer, director of athletics at the University of Missouri.

This change will make possible again the old quarterback kick and the quick kick.

There are also a few minor changes. Any player who has been taken out can go back into the game at any time in the last quarter, while previously he could do so only at the beginning of this quarter. In a forward pass play, the men may interfere until the pass has actually been made.

The field will be laid off as it was last season, 300 feet long, with 30-foot end zones for forward passing. A touchdown will count six points again this season with an additional point when a goal is kicked. A field goal counts three points.

"This year, the first half of the season will not be experimental as it usually has been," said Professor Brewer. "The teams can start pretty nearly where they left off. The game ought to be more satisfactory to the players, the coaches and the spectators this year."

The 1913 rules were framed during the Christmas holidays at a meeting in New York City which Mr. Brewer attended. This was a general football meeting at which the changes were discussed. The rules were then drawn up by a committee of fifteen.

SEMI-FINALS IN DOUBLES OVER

C. R. Timmons and J. F. Loomis, and E. M. Todd and Cuthbert Stephenson are the two teams which will contest for the doubles championship in the tennis tournament. The finals probably will be played today or tomorrow. The winning pair will receive two pair of balls. Ten pair started in the tournament.

Miss Martha Payne Fine, assistant in the secretary's office, will spend her vacation in Tolland and other places in Colorado.

be obtained from the professor of the subject. The "study card" with accompanying "course cards" must be presented for approval to the dean of the college or school not later than 5:00 p. m. of the day after it is issued, and in no case later than 5:00 p. m. on Thursday of the first week of the semester. If a student is registered in more than one college or school he should leave the "course cards" and all of his "study cards" with the dean of either one of the colleges or schools in which he is registered.

In making out the "study card" the student must conform to the regulations governing the work in the college or school and department in which he is registered. In all the colleges and schools students should consult the dean in making out their "study cards."
